Your rights and how to exercise them

You have a number of rights in relation to your personal data: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a) to access them b) make amendments and additions to them c) require us to erasure them d) request a restriction on their processing e) object to a particular data processing f) receive your data from us in electronic format, so that you can then transfer it to another person or ask us to do so g) not to be subjected to automated decision-making (i.e., a decision that our system makes automatically due to its specific algorithm and without human participation) h) to withdraw consent to their processing. 	Your rights in relation to your personal data: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a) The right to access personal data We provide you with the opportunity to access your personal data that is processed by the service. You can request information about what your personal data is processed by us and to what extent by sending us a request . <ul style="list-style-type: none"> b) Right to rectification You can independently change (clarify / supplement) certain personal data in your profile, and you can also contact us with a request to clarify your personal data. We may ask you for documents confirming the need for changes, if such changes are related to the receipt of paid services of the service. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> c) The right to erasure (the "right to be forgotten") In certain cases, you can request * the deletion of your personal data and the termination of their processing, for example, when the personal data is no longer needed for the purposes of specific processing, or when you withdraw your consent or object to the processing of your personal data, or when in your opinion the processing of personal data does not comply with the law. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> d) The right to restrict processing

In any case, you can always ask us how we process your data and how you can exercise your rights.

If we suspect that someone is impersonating you, we will check whether it is really you who made the request to us.

You may request* that we temporarily or permanently stop processing all or some of your personal data if:

dispute the accuracy of your personal data,

– if you believe that the processing is illegal and, instead of deleting personal data, you want to restrict their use by us,

– you believe that they are necessary for you to declare, implement or challenge legal claims and claims.

e) The right to object to processing

Taking into account your specific situation, you can at any time object to the processing of your personal data if the basis for their processing was our legitimate interest or the processing is necessary to perform a task in the public interest or within the framework of the exercise of state power entrusted to us (the grounds for processing are described in the Appendix List of treatments. You can also object to profiling based on these grounds.

Also, in cases where we process data for the purposes of direct marketing, you have the right at any time to object to the processing of your personal data for the purposes of such marketing, including profiling, to the extent that the processing of your personal data relates to this direct marketing.

f) The right to data portability

You have the right to receive your personal data available to us, which we received with your consent or they were provided to us for the performance of the contract, from us in electronic format and then you can transfer such data to another person. We may, at your direction, transfer such data directly to another person, if this is technically feasible.

(g) The right not to be subjected to automated decision-making

You have the right not to be subjected to a decision that is based solely on the automated processing of your personal data, including profiling, if such actions entail legal consequences (for example, some of your legal rights will be infringed, limited) or in a similar way significantly affect you.

In certain cases, automated decision-making may take place, but we will take measures to protect your rights, freedoms and interests of the data subject. In this situation, you can request* the intervention of our specialist to make a decision, and also have the right to express your position, challenge such a decision.

h) The right to withdraw consent to the processing of personal data

If we process your personal information based on your consent, you can revoke your consent to the processing of personal data at any time by changing the settings in your profile or by sending us a request* indicating the revoked consent. Please note that the fact of revocation of consent does not affect the legality of data processing actions performed before the revocation.

If you have any questions about your privacy rights or how you can exercise them, or if you want to exercise any of these rights, you can send us a request*. We will try to respond to your request as soon as possible, but in any case we will do it within a month from the date of receipt of the request. In some cases, it may take up to 3 months to fulfill your request, which we will definitely notify you about and explain the reasons for the delay.

Please keep in mind that if the request is unclear, we can contact you to better understand the content of the request. We may also refuse to satisfy a request if it is clearly unfounded or excessive (repetitive).

If we have doubts whether you have really contacted us (and not someone impersonating you), we have the right to ask you to confirm your identity (for example, to confirm some data known to you and us or to provide a copy of your identity card). This will allow us to make sure that the satisfaction of your request does not violate the rights of third parties.

If you are not completely satisfied with our response, you can also complain about our processing of your personal data to the appropriate data protection authority.

How we receive your personal data

Where do we get your data from:

1) we receive from you (for example, when you enter data during registration or write a request to our mail);

2) we automatically collect data from your device (phone, computer) from which you use the service;

3) we receive it from other services and persons (for example, from Facebook, Google, Apple);

4) we create it ourselves (for example, by collecting the history of your use of the service).

We may receive your personal data:

1. directly from you when you enter this data when registering or using the service or in connection with its use (for example, when you enter data during registration or write a request to our email);

2. automatically received by us when you use the service (for example, technical data of the device);

3. received by us from third-party resources and services (for example, when registering or logging in via Facebook or from our payment system);

4. generated by our service when you use it (payment history)).

When you register or log in to our service via Facebook, Google, Apple, you give us permission to receive certain information from these services. The specific types of information that we may receive depend on your settings for this service and will be governed by their privacy policy.

You can unlink your Facebook, Google or Apple account from your service account at any time.

For more information on how it works, see the links:

Google - <https://clck.ru/YHB8p>

Apple - <https://support.apple.com/en-us/HT210426>

Facebook - <https://ru-ru.facebook.com/help/170585223002660>

Please note that if such a connection is severed, we will no longer be able to receive up-to-date data from these services. It may also lead to the fact that you will not be able to log in to our service if you have one login method configured. However, you will be able to log in to your account in our service again through the same account.

When we ask you to provide your personal data for the provision of services of the service, we strive to collect only those whose collection is the minimum necessary for the provision of services of the service. If you do not provide us with complete and accurate data, we will not be able to provide you with the services of the service.

If for some functionality (for example, sending news to the mail) or for some of our needs (for example, sending advertising to you), your consent to the processing

	of personal data is required, such processing will be carried out at your discretion and only after receiving your consent. In the Table 3 you will find the categories of personal data that we collect in the course of your work with the Service, with a list of personal data that may be affected for each of them.
Who we can share your data with
Your data may be processed by other companies engaged by us. Your data may sometimes be transferred for processing outside the EU, including to countries where the level of personal data protection is not adequate to the European level. However, in such cases, we undertake to monitor such processing.	For the operation, development, promotion of the service, we cooperate with other service providers who may have access to or receive from us or directly some of your personal data to provide relevant services. Such suppliers may be located outside the European Union and in countries that do not provide an adequate level of personal data protection (for example, the United States, Russia, Belarus, etc.). We allow these companies to process your data in accordance with our instructions and exactly to the extent that they need it to provide their services and products. As a tool for transferring data to countries that do not provide a level of protection adequate to the European one, we use such as Standard Contractual Clauses (approved by the EU Commission), which describe the conditions for processing data by recipients and mechanisms for their protection (including various technical, organizational and legal protection measures). For a list of providers see in the Table 4.
Information that is publicly available within the service
Please note that some of your information will be available to other persons and take this into account when you order something, write something, upload it to the Service.	The following personal data will always be publicly available in our service: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – your username as a user (login), – profile avatar (profile photo), – playlist cover, stations, – your order lists and their history, – comments on orders, – DJ’s content (except for personal stations).

We ask you to take into account the general availability of this information when installing a profile avatar, writing a comment, ordering a playlist.

How long do we store your personal data?

As a rule, we store your personal data as long as it is necessary to provide you with services in the Service and to provide access to the Service.

As a rule, we store your personal data as long as it is necessary to provide you with services in the Service and to provide access to the Service.

Individual personal data will be stored for the period necessary to ensure our legitimate and significant business goals and interests, or for the period established by law for the storage of certain data.

We will store the necessary personal data after deleting the profile, only if it is necessary for:

- fulfillment of our tax and legal obligations,
- compliance with the requirements of the legislation,
- to resolve claims or disputes,
- ensuring security,
- prevention of fraud and money laundering,
- ensuring the safety of our users.

Public user content posted in comments, as well as ratings and views that are associated with deleted user profiles, will be available for viewing after the user profile is deleted and will be displayed in the Service as published by unknown users.

Please note that if you delete some personal data of users from the Service, this deletion may affect the ability to use the Service and its functionality for the user.

How does the service ensure the security of your data?

The security of your data is important to us. To do this, we use certain common measures to protect them, and also make sure that our partners provide an appropriate level of protection of your data.

We strive to protect the personal data of our users and take all reasonable and appropriate measures to protect the personal data of users from loss, theft, misuse and unauthorized access, disclosure, alteration and destruction.

To protect your personal data, we:

- have designed and have developed the Service in such a way as to minimize the risks of data breach;

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - have chosen reliable partners who comply with the requirements of the laws on personal data protection. Our partners with whom we share your personal data are required to comply with all applicable data privacy requirements and ensure an appropriate level of data protection; - have restricted access and differentiated the levels of access to your personal data for our employees and third parties, and we also monitor who accesses, uses and transmits your personal data; - conduct vulnerability scanning of the Service to prevent data breach; - store personal data on servers located in the European Union (Germany); - encrypt personal data for safe transmission and storage; - when you enter your credit card information, this information is encrypted and protected by our third-party payment service providers. If you have any questions about the security of our Service, please contact our Data protection officer at privacy@viplaymedia.com.
Personal data breach
No service is 100% secure. If your data is suddenly leaked in our Service, we will do everything to eliminate such a leak and its consequences for you. It is important for you to restrict the access of others to your device and its contents, since we cannot ensure the security of your data in the event of such access.	Please note that no security system is perfect, and therefore we cannot fully guarantee the absolute security of the service or unauthorized access to personal data by third parties. In case of occurrence of such circumstances (events) we will take all reasonable measures to eliminate these circumstances (events) and their consequences. We recommend that you restrict access to the device from which you use the service, and log out after using the Service. If necessary, we will notify you of any violations related to your personal data breach, and report such breach to the relevant authority for the supervision of compliance with the legislation on the protection of personal data.
Changes to the Privacy notice
This document may change periodically. We will notify you about important changes in the	We may periodically make changes to this Privacy notice and, if necessary, we will notify you about it (for example, by posting a notification in the Service or

service itself or by email.	sending you an email and / or notification to your device). Your continued access to or use of the Service after the effective date of such changes will be governed by the revised Privacy notice. If you do not agree with the changes made to Privacy notice (in general and / or in part), please do not use the Service and delete your profile (if you want us to stop processing your personal data). In any case, you can get acquainted with the current version of Privacy notice and all its previous versions on our website (https://moodby.com/en/). We recommend that you periodically review our website or Service applications to get the latest information about our privacy policies regarding your personal data. You bear the risks associated with untimely familiarization with the Privacy Notice, changes and (or) additions made to the Privacy Notice before using the moodby service. The invalidation of certain provisions of the Privacy notice for any reason does not entail the invalidity of the Privacy notice as a whole and its other provisions.
